Royal Jelly for your Beauty

What is Royal Jelly?

Royal jelly is a special nutrient-rich substance secreted by worker bees and consumed exclusively by the queen bee throughout her life. Because of this, it has attracted attention as a natural ingredient associated with vitality and youthful living.

Royal jelly is often described as a “treasure trove of nutrition,” containing a well-balanced mix of over 40 nutrients. These include essential amino acids that the human body cannot produce on its own, along with a variety of vitamins and minerals that help support overall wellness.

It also contains unique compounds found only in royal jelly, such as 10-HDA (decenoic acid) and parotin-like substances.

Royal jelly is commonly used to support general well-being, including energy levels, skin care, and overall vitality.

Aging and Blood Pressure (General Wellness Information)

As people age, changes naturally occur in the body, including reduced elasticity of blood vessels. These changes may be associated with normal shifts in circulation and overall cardiovascular function.

In addition, age-related changes in normal autonomic nervous system function may influence the body's natural regulatory processes.

Blood pressure levels can change over time due to a variety of lifestyle and physiological factors. Maintaining healthy habits such as a balanced diet, regular physical activity, adequate rest, and stress management is an important part of supporting overall cardiovascular wellness.

Royal Jelly and Cardiovascular Support

Royal Jelly is a nutrient-rich substance produced by worker bees and traditionally valued as a functional food.

Certain peptides derived from royal jelly protein hydrolysates have been investigated for their potential to support normal enzymatic activity involved in the body's natural regulatory processes related to circulation and vascular function.

Royal Jelly may help:

Support overall cardiovascular system health already within a normal range *

Promote general circulatory wellness as part of a healthy lifestyle *

Provide nutritional support for normal bodily functions involved in vascular balance *

Message from Mr. Torii

When I traveled to Vietnam in February, the peach blossoms and cherry blossoms were in bloom, and in mid-March in Seoul, Korea, the cherry blossoms were at their peak—truly magnificent.

I am concerned about what will happen to our daily lives if the conflict between the United States and Iran is not resolved. Oil is not only used for gasoline—it is a raw material closely tied to many aspects of our everyday lives. I sincerely hope that peace will come as soon as possible.

As I previously shared, we have taken on the responsibility of managing everything from cultivation of shiitake mycelium—Magnus's flagship product—to raw material extraction and final product manufacturing.

The more I learn about shiitake mycelium, the more I am convinced of its remarkable power. I continue to encourage our manufacturing staff to produce even higher-quality raw materials. In fact, during this recent business trip to Korea, thanks to the kindness of Chairman Son—who operates two hospitals there—we are thinking of supplementing his patients with shiitake mycelium. Chairman Son previously imported and sold Magnus's Fukken in Korea, and later began cultivating and manufacturing it himself there. He is deeply knowledgeable about the power of shiitake mycelium.

To maintain good health, strengthening the immune system is essential. I can confidently say that shiitake mycelium (Fukken) has the power to enhance physical vitality, which is the foundation of health.

This July, I will turn 90 years old. For the past 45 years since I began selling Fukken, I have personally used it. Thanks to it, I have avoided serious illness and remained healthy to this day.

In January, I also visited Taiwan, where the president of the Taiwan Herbal Medicine Association promised to adopt shiitake mycelium as one of their official products and actively promote it—as a form of traditional herbal medicine.

I sincerely hope that people will take health supplements not after becoming ill, but to prevent illness in the first place.

It is true that Magnus products are more expensive than others on the market. However, there are clear reasons for this. Even the cultivation of shiitake mycelium involves careful preparation of the highest-quality strains, growing them on a medium made from bagasse (sugarcane residue) and rice bran, and managing light, temperature, and humidity over several months.

After that, the material is stored under refrigerated conditions for several more months to create a strong, resilient mycelium under extreme conditions. Then, the extract is obtained and freeze-dried to complete the raw material.

While this may sound simple when written, the process actually involves many detailed steps. Over 90% is done by hand. Some may think it should be made more efficiently, but modern efficiency often compromises authenticity.

Finally, I would like to share an interesting thought.

Which lives longer—an elephant or a mouse? You might think the smaller animal, which uses less energy, would live longer. But in fact, the elephant lives longer. The reasoning is fascinating. It is said that animals (including humans) are allotted a fixed number of breaths in their lifetime—about 700 million.

Mice move constantly and breathe quickly, so their lifespans are short. Elephants, on the other hand, live calmly and breathe slowly, allowing them to live longer. Humans are the same. Please use your allotted breaths slowly and calmly, and fulfill your natural lifespan.

One more point. When eating, chew well and eat slowly. Chewing provides pleasant stimulation to the brain and reduces the burden on the digestive system. Eating with enjoyment and gratitude further enhances your health. Those who read this and put it into practice will likely be surprised by the results. Becoming healthy is not that difficult. In fact, 85% of poor health and illness stems from unhealthy lifestyle habits. Please keep this firmly in mind.

You—not your doctor—are your own primary physician.

While more than 50% of people aged 65 may reach 90, the truth is that many people around age 75 are no longer able to live independently without difficulty.

Please keep this in mind and improve your lifestyle habits. Understand your diet, exercise, and sleep patterns, and correct any problems.

You may manage until 75 somehow, but you must prepare for what comes after. For example, if you are sleep-deprived, take time to rest—even during the day. If you have overeaten for several days, try skipping a meal. By simply showing small acts of care toward your body, it has the natural ability to restore itself.

I call this approach the “Torii-style three-day health method,” (meaning I try to correct bad life habits within 3 days towards a healthier choice) and I practice it myself.

You don't need to constantly obsess over health—but continuing a careless lifestyle is what causes harm. Taking mindful care of your health doesn't require worry—just consistency and awareness in your daily choices.

《From our Friends》

● Menopause comfort

I am a 51-year-old housewife. I was going through what felt like the worst stage of menopause and was struggling every day. However, after I started taking Magnus Royal Jelly Pro, I strangely began to feel much better and even feel younger. I have more energy, and my daily headaches are gone.

When royal jelly became popular in Japan before, I used to think, "Does it really work?" and was skeptical. But after actually taking it, I truly came to understand the benefits of royal jelly. Because I'm always smiling now, my husband and children are very happy as well.

(K. Sawaguchi, 51, NJ)

● I no longer feel tired

I used to catch colds easily. I had always assumed this was just because I was constitutionally weak since childhood, so I had given up on it. But when I tried royal jelly given to me by a friend, I noticed that even in the evening I didn't feel tired, and I could work overtime without any problem. I am convinced this is entirely thanks to royal jelly.

I take two capsules every day without fail.

In addition, my previously unstable blood pressure has stabilized, and as a result I have not had to miss work due to illness in the past few years. My colleagues are surprised to see how energetic and active I have become at work.

I am truly grateful for royal jelly.
